

Engineer/Associate Engineer – Electrical

With a focus on E&M engineering solutions and services for transit and auto fare collection systems in Hong Kong, KML provides one-stop service from design, fabrication, installation and maintenance services to its clients. Embracing innovation, we harness the power of cutting-edge technologies like artificial intelligence to create intelligent devices and enhance our products. Discover endless possibilities with us! We provide a supportive culture, cutting-edge technology and exciting projects, Join our team today!

What you will:

- Coordinate, monitor and execute electrical design and installation in E&M project
- Prepare works programme, method statement, material submission and shop drawing submission for electrical works
- Coordinate in site work with client and subcontractor
- Handling site works and supervise the team to complete the project on time
- Carry out T&C to the installation before handover
- Material sourcing and procurement

What will make you success:

- Bachelor's degree / Higher Diploma in Electrical Engineering or related disciplines
- Experience in electrical installation works
- Strong PC skills including Microsoft Project, AutoCAD, Microstation and Solidworks
- A valid Certificate of Registered Electrical Worker in A0, B0 or H0 is preferred
- Good organization and leadership skills
- Proficient in English and Chinese, good communication and interpersonal skill
- Work independently and able to work under pressure
- Willing to work at irregular working hours
- Candidate with less experience will be considered as Associate Engineer

We offer:

- A friendly, dynamic environment in an ongoing expansion business
- Career prospects and opportunity of personal continuous development
- Competitive remuneration package + discretionary bonus
- 5-day work week, medical insurance, full-pay sick leave and paid marriage leave

Interested parties, please apply with full resume, date availability, current and expected salary to the Human Resources Department.

All personal data provided will be treated in strict confidence and used for recruitment purposes only.